Gerhart Hauptmann(1912), Hermann Hesse(1946), Thomas Mann(1929)

Thomas Mann
 (1929): "principally for his great novel, Buddenbrooks, which has won steadily increased recognition as one of the classic works of contemporary literature."

Grazia Deledda (1926): "for her idealistically inspired writings which with plastic clarity picture the life on her native island and with depth and sympathy deal with human problems in general."

Egypt (1988) - Orange color misplaced -(Naguib Mahfouz, 1988 Nobel Prize - Winner for Literature) : "who, through works rich in nuance - now clear-sightedly realistic, now evocatively ambiguous - has formed an Arabian narrative art that applies to all mankind."

Elfriede Jelinek(2004): "for her musical flow of voices and counter-voices in novels and plays that with extraordinary linguistic zeal reveal the absurdity of society's clichés and their subjugating power."

Kenzaburo Oe(1994): "who with poetic force creates an imagined world, where life and myth condense to form a disconcerting picture of the human predicament today";

Toni Morrison(1993): "who in novels characterized by visionary force and poetic import, gives life to an essential aspect of American reality."
