

NEOTROPICAL REGION

The Neotropical region extends from Mexico to the end of South America. It covers a wide range of habitats and climates. The tropical rain forest of South America have the greatest diversity of species.

